

The first Nordic Dairy Congress was arranged by Nordic dairy organizations in 1920 in Oslo. Eighteen years later the first Dairy Technology Congress took place in Gothenburg. These congresses were organized on alternate years, until in the 1970s, when discussions about merging the two began. The first combined congress was held in Århus using the ordinal number 31 which was generated by totaling the number of the earlier Dairy and Dairy Technology congresses arranged until then.

Welcome to Lofoten in 2013

The 43rd Nordic Dairy Congress will be held in Lofoten, Norway, 6-8 of June, 2013, in the town of Svolvær in Lofoten. The congress will take place at Thon Hotel Lofoten. The hotel is centrally located in Svolvær, close to the waterfront and the picturesque harbor.

In addition to an interesting and technical program, where the theme is “Nordic Dairy industry-Future Perspectives”, you will experience the magnificent arctic summer and Norwegian nature at its best. Lofoten is located north of the polar circle and from May to the end of July there is daylight all day and night long. We also hope for nice weather so we are able to enjoy the midnight sun.

Bjørnstjerne Bjørnson, a famous Norwegian writer and Nobel Prize winner, said in 1869: “You have not seen proper nature until you have visited Northern Norway, and most beautiful of all Lofoten.

The social program of the congress will give you an opportunity to experience the special nature of Lofoten and cultural highlights.
